

title: The Banjo Song

time: Written in the spring of 2000

theme: Clarity and joy.

Theme is

I am sorry if things have changed

I've been running in the middle of the last thing you said

Forgive me I forgot your name

Got lost when I was walking I am sorry I'm late

The time before was lost in what you said

I can't fix it

Standing looking at the gestures in your head

I rest my hands again

Would you wait for me?

Climb back down the mountain

Hanging on a thread of vigilance and the plans

With no names

I am seeking only ventures with which I will never break

All the way go further than you are reaching

Learn to say you are holding on today

Broken eyes will see only broken visions

Come away with more